

		Feeding and Fertilizer	Other Stuff
↑ Summer to Fall ↓	Spring to Summer	Daytime Highs - in the 60s Status →	Yawn... lazy and waking up. Slow to grow.
		Spray Super Juice in the 14-2-4 ratio as often as you want. It's very mild and can be sprayed every week if you want.	Pre-Emergent goes down in spring and fall. (See website for more info) Check Soil PH
		Daytime Highs - in the 70s Status →	Had my coffee, let's start moving.
		Put down PGF granular fertilizer Spray Super Juice 14-2-4 ratio.	HUMIC DG can be applied anytime after 70s for new users apply twice per season. ↓
		Daytime Highs - in the 80s Status →	I am awesome... just try and stop me.
		Organic Fertilizer now can be applied Start Super Juice at the 7-1-2 ratio	Watch for Army Worms apply the new DOU at very first signs.
		Daytime Highs - in the upper 80s low 90s →	I like this weather, I might retire here.
		Organic Fertilizer can be applied if needed Apply Super Juice after rains in the 7-1-2 Ratio	Watch for Army Worms apply the new DOU at very first signs.
		Daytime Highs - in the 90s + Status →	It's hot out here, I'm going to chill.
		Apply Super Juice after rains in the 7-1-2 Ratio Apply in the early morning or late afternoon.	Watch for Army Worms apply the new DOU at very first signs.
		Winter Status →	Good night... see you next spring.

Rather than trying to figure out soil temps or adjust months for your area, this chart allows you to use the day time highs which is often easier. Remember, the daytime highs are when they are fairly constant. To find out the best, newest, and tested products Doc recommends, simply visit the website and look for "Doc's Product Links"